

Visions of World's Series Money Fail to Dim Dodgers' Batting Eyes--Giants Make Second 17 Victory Advance

GIANTS MAY MARK FOR CONSECUTIVE VICTORIES IS TIED Slim Sallee, Recovered From Ptomaine Poisoning, Blanks Cubs, 5 to 0.

GETS FINE SUPPORT: NOW 17 IN A ROW The Giants' winning streak of seventeen straight games last May now has a twin brother. Joseph Tinker had the kindness to save Jim Vaughn for the Dodgers, so the Giants had little trouble in clearing the seventeenth hurdle of their new offensive on the Polo Grounds yesterday.

As Vaughn pitched in Philadelphia last Tuesday he was not exactly due untill today, but most everybody in New York expected Joe Tinker to try to snap our streak. But Joseph has other plans. He is now open and close his game Brooklyn series with Vaughn, and Big Jim is in the game.

Sallee's Support Excellent. Slim Sallee, who has been nursed back to health, had the honor of pitching the Giants to their seventeenth straight victory. It was the first game the slim one has pitched since the team came home. The long shag had a long tussle with ptomaine poisoning, but yesterday was feeling much better.

Hubert Scott Perry, a young man from Omaha, who is in Atlanta scenery for the greater part of the year, pitched the first game in the series. Tinker's pitcher yesterday. Perry shut out the Braves last week, but discovered yesterday the Giants are a little different proposition. They added up five runs for ten hits, and they added up five runs for ten hits.

Zimmerman Scores in Sixth. Zimm, who has been a busy boy in this Club series, carried home a fourth Giant run in the sixth inning. He was the first to get a hit, and he was the first to get a run. He was the first to get a hit, and he was the first to get a run.

Chicago (N. Y.) NEW YORK (N. Y.) Score: 5 to 0. Sallee pitched for the Giants. He was the first to get a hit, and he was the first to get a run. He was the first to get a hit, and he was the first to get a run.

Ebbets Tries to Justify Prices for World's Series

President of Superbas, Contending Brooklyn Should Draw as Big a Gate as in Larger Parks, Says Scale Is Reasonable.

By FREDERICK G. LIEB. The bleacher boys in Brooklyn still are in no mood to pay $2 for a seat in the bleachers for a game of baseball. Even during World's Series time, they will not pay more than $1 for a seat.

San Johnson Would Lower Prices. That is a fairly reasonable scale of prices, though not as high as the scale of the American League. President Johnson would like to see the scale lowered.
